Areas of Practice

Isabel does both contentious and non-contentious legal work and acts for corporate entities and individuals in litigation, arbitration, mediation and applications to the State Titles Boards and other tribunal bodies.

Contentious work include advising and representing clients in building and construction disputes, contractual disputes, shareholders' disputes, MCST-related matters, disputes including divorce matrimonial and personal injury claims.

Non-contentious legal work include advising clients, drafting of building and construction related documents, shareholders agreement, collaboration agreement, investment agreement and other types of commercial contracts and providing advice to companies registered entities including societies, MCST, and individuals in criminal defence, divorce-related matters, wills, letters of administration and lasting power of attorney.

Professional Experience and Personal Interests

Isabel is a dedicated listener at work, with a knack for details. Her personable demeanor and high bilingualism in English and Mandarin, coupled with her fluency in Hokkien, have endeared her to clients, many of whom are often in need of either personal redress or practical legal advice.

Outside work, Isabel enjoys trekking and skiing, amongst other interests.
